NOT THE REAL |$47,139.58 MRS. IRELAND

in Remarkable Suit of Miss Harriet Haines.

Say Defendant Drove Rich Mistress | Was to Receive "Fair Remunerafrom Her Own Home and Is About to Elope.

Application was made to Justice Leventritt in the Supreme Court to-day by Singer & Barr in behalf of Mrs. Mary Reynolds Ireland, of Saratoga, to set aside an attachment upon her property held by Miss Harriet A. Haines.

Miss Haines, who is a Catskill girl. sued Mrs. Ireland for $15,000 on an alleged contract to come and live with ter and her heir. Albert T. Sire presented Miss Haines's affidavit, alleging that Mrs. Ireland was about to take her quarter of a million to cheat Miss Haines.

Lawyer Barr told the Court to-day that this was false and that the suit was an attempt at blackmail by a woman who had been secured through a "want ad." as a house servant.

Not the Real Mrs. Ireland!

In reply Mr. Sire quoted from affida vits by Miss Haines, Frank Dobler, Saratoga; Mr. Van Deusen, agent for "the real Mrs. Ireland," and others.

He declared that the defendant wa not the widow of Robert Ireland, who left her his whole estate of $250,000 in 1897, but that she was simply a servant in the home, secured through an advertisement by the real Mrs. Ireland.
"She was a servant for the Irelands twenty-six years." said Mr. Sire. "She got a mastery over Mr. Ireland and drove Mrs. Ireland from her own home several years ago.

"The real Mrs. Ireland is still living in luxurious retirement at Montclair, N. J. "This woman, Mary Reynolds, got all Robert Ireland's estate as residuary legatee.

"They were living at Catskill prior to Mr. Ireland's death, and Mary Reynolds met Miss Haines there. The Haineses were old friends of the Irelands.

Agreed to Leave Her All. "After Ireland died the woman in the presence of the parents of Miss Haines agreed to make Harriet, their aineteen-year-old, a member of her family and leave her fortune to her.

This unorth, however, Mrs. Rey-nolds's treatment of her had become unbearable. Miss Haines discovered that her adopted mother was preparing to leave the country—to elope with a Saratora contractor who already has a

In the room were Keilbach's effects and a letter addressed to his parents. The ship was searched, but no trace of the missing passenger was found.

It is believed that he jumped overboard some time Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

It is said that Keilbach was employed in the Comptroller's office of the city of Savannah and that he recently failed of reappointment.
